Supporting Growers, Rooted in Partnership

A message from Tobacco Journal International

As a long-standing media partner of ITGA, we greatly value our collaboration and the important work ITGA does in giving tobacco growers a voice on the global stage.

Tobacco growers are the foundation of the global tobacco supply chain. Their expertise, resilience and commitment help sustain an industry that supports millions of livelihoods around the world. TJI celebrates the growers whose dedication forms the roots of our industry. Like every tobacco plant, a strong future begins with strong foundations. Together we grow, together we shape the future.

On World Tobacco Growers' Day, TJI proudly recognises the essential role growers play today and in shaping the future of the sector. We believe their reality, their voice and their perspective deserve to be heard.

To all tobacco growers around the world: thank you for your dedication and hard work. We wish you a successful harvest season and a happy World Tobacco Growers' Day 2026.
